Ruined Cities Launch Long Recovery Job

Thousands Without Homes, Jobs; Death Toll Stands At 180

By The Associated Press
The long, painful road back began yesterday for northeastern states prostrated by floods. The job of recovery will take months—in some cases, even years.

With many communities overwhelmed by destruction and hardship, President Eisenhower scheduled a personal flight into the stricken region to confer with governors on means to deal with the crisis.

Thousands of people were not only homeless, but without means of livelihood. Plants where they worked were knocked out of operation in many industrial cities, and it will be weeks before they run again.

From town to town, along a vast curve stretching from Massachusetts, through Connecticut, Rhode Island, New York and into New Jersey and Pennsylvania, the ruin was calamitous in scope.

Few Had Insurance

Whole cities lay in slushy desolation, with houses sagging, streets turned into quagmires, mills and shops closed, soldiers patrolling the ghostly "condemned" sections.

In many places there were long lines of shocked, bewildered people, waiting for food or a place to spend the night. The Red Cross said a partial survey showed 34,169 families routed from their homes.

For many, the losses were irretrievable. Insurance companies said few policies covered flood damage. Overall, the destruction ran into untold billions—one of the worst such disasters ever to strike the nation.

The still-mounting death toll stood at 180, with the following states counting these losses of life from drownings, flood-provoked accidents and electrocutions from fallen wires:

Pennsylvania, 93; Connecticut, 60; Massachusetts, 13; Rhode Island, 1; New Jersey, 6; New York, 4; Virginia, 3.

Disease Remains Threat

The perils of disease also stalked the afflicted towns, with utility services in many cases still paralyzed. In Putnam, Conn., a disengaged resident said:

"They keep telling us to boil our water, but there's nothing to boil it with."

In dozens of other communities the travail was just as harsh.

In Woosocket, R. I., 8,000 workers were left without jobs. Big textile mills were laid waste. A school cafeteria was thrown open to feed refugees from condemned homes.

Industries also were disabled in Westfield and Southbridge, Mass., in numerous northeastern Connecticut towns, and around Stroudsburg, Pa., with weeks needed to get them back in repair.

Officials at Winsted, Conn., estimated 85 per cent of the businesses there were wiped out.

Invest More In Rights Fight, Negroes Urged

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 22 (P)—White House aide E. Frederic Morrow said today the nation's 16 million Negroes should invest more money in the fight for civil rights and spend less on "whiskey, furs, cosmetics, cars and other items of luxury."

The Negro leader said American Negroes now have an annual income exceeding 15 billion dollars.

But he said the "Negro is the only unit in our national life having such colossal spending power but paying slight attention to its placement and use."

Morrow, White House administrative officer for special projects, spoke at the annual convention of the Improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, a Negro fraternal group.

French Tanks, Jets Blast Africa Rebels

CASABLANCA, Morocco, Aug. 22 (P)—The French turned tanks, jet fighter planes and tough Foreign Legionnaires loose on rebel strongholds in Algeria and Morocco today in reprisal for weekend bloodletting that left an estimated 1,000 dead.

Nine suspected rebel hideout villages in Algeria were emptied and razed by artillery. Heavily armed Legionnaires, under jet fighter cover, started a house-to-house cleanup of Oued Zem, scene of the weekend's worst massacre in Morocco.

The French called it a "nettoyage"—cleanup. In tinderbox North Africa it is known as a "rattisage," a dread word meaning a fine comb search but implying more.

Many Prisoners Taken

The exact number of prisoners taken and suspects questioned is unknown but the figure runs to thousands in both countries.

In Oued Zem, Arabs were reported to have barricaded their houses against the Legion search.

One trooper was reported killed but details of the operation were few.

Just to the southeast of Oued Zem, the commander of French troops in Morocco, Gen. Raymond Duval, 61, was killed along with two companions when his light plane crashed and burned. First reports said the plane exploded in the air. It fell in the area where rebel tribesmen fled after the massacre at Oued Zem.

Killed were John J. O'Boyle, and Anthony Malick, both of Shenandoah, and Peter Ruddy of nearby Mahanay City.

Rescuers Risk Lives

The bodies of O'Boyle and Malick were found lying together near the spot where they had been loading coal into a truck before the crash. Ruddy's smashed remains were dug out later.

Even as the rescue workers worked grimly to extricate the dead and mangled living, part of the top of the breaker, suspended in mid-air, wavered ominously above. It could have come crashing down at any minute and taken other lives. But it still swung precariously after the final excavation work had been finished.

The French officials said the situation at Oued Zem was well in hand.

At Ait Ammar, important iron mining center just north of the town, the Moroccans were reported to have attacked a French patrol which killed 20 of them. No French casualties were reported.

Fifteen Europeans were murdered at Ait Ammar Saturday.

Hecker, 78, Drowns, Bride Rescued As Boat Capsizes

ERIE, Pa., Aug. 22 (P)—An 18-foot cabin cruiser, carrying 78-year-old Harvey Hecker and his bride on a long honeymoon trip, foundered during a storm on Lake Erie today. Hecker drowned and his wife was rescued.

Mrs. Hecker, 70, said the craft began breaking up about a half mile from shore at North East, about 25 miles east of here. She and her husband were thrown into the water when the boat capsized.

Chester Durst of North East saw the couple floating offshore near the wreckage of the cruiser. He reportedly launched a boat and then continued their voyage down the Mississippi.

Mrs. Hecker said her husband died, but his wife was revived. A Coast Guard boat took her to Erie, where she is in fair condition at a hospital. Full details of the rescue were not available immediately.

Deported Nazi Spy Arrives In Germany

CUXHAVEN, Germany, Aug. 22 (P)—Erich Gimpel, one-time Nazi spy in the United States, arrived here today and was immediately taken into custody.

The 45-year-old Gimpel was deported from the U. S. earlier this month after serving 10 years in various U. S. prisons.

Gimpel was put ashore on the coast of Maine early in 1944 by a German submarine. He was captured a month later and sentenced to death but this was commuted to life.

They continued their trip up the Hudson River and across the Erie Canal. They planned to stop at Sandusky, Ohio, on Lake Erie, and then continue their voyage down the Mississippi.

Mrs. Hecker said her husband became interested in boats several years ago and had made a number of lengthy trips. The craft was a pre-fabricated one which Hecker assembled himself in New Port Richey.

Emergency Relief Meeting Scheduled At Hartford, Conn.

DENVER, Aug. 22 (P)—President Eisenhower will fly over flood-ravaged regions of six Eastern states tomorrow morning and then hold an emergency relief conference at Hartford, Conn., in the heart of the stricken area.

The President himself announced his plans to newsmen at the summer White House and also called on the nation to "pitch in and help" the American Red Cross raise a disaster relief fund.

Federal funds — to the extent described by presidential secretary James C. Hagerty as "in effect a blank check" — have been made available for relief work through the Civil Defense administration.

Eisenhower was scheduled to leave Denver tonight at 11 p.m. EST and fly east overnight aboard his private plane, Columbine III.

Ike, Governors To Confer

After daylight tomorrow he will view the ravages of the flood over six states, which has caused nearly 200 deaths and made nearly 35,000 families homeless.

He is scheduled to land at about 8:30 a.m. EST at Bradley Airfield, where he will confer in his plane with governors, or their representatives, from the flood-hit areas of Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Connecticut, New York, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, over which he will fly. North and South Carolina, also storm ravaged, will send representatives to the meeting.

Eisenhower, who had called newsmen into a conference room at the Lowry Air Force Base, the summer White House, said the federal government had been cooperating to full extent with the Red Cross and other relief agencies.

Red Cross On Job

To assure myself that the Red Cross and federal government in the states are cooperating effectively, leaving no opportunity amiss in order that we may be helpful, I am going to meet Mr. Harriman (E. Roland Harriman, chairman of the American Red Cross) tomorrow in Hartford, Conn.

The President cited a report by Harriman that the Red Cross is doing all possible to aid those in the stricken areas and has allocated $2,000,000 for this work.

Harriman's report added that the Red Cross is operating 107 shelters, housing and feeding 12,000 homeless and providing clothing for all who need it. He estimated that 8,000 families would need Red Cross aid after the emergency.

Talks Show U.S. Leads A-Power Race, Ike Told

As in most other rural Tennessee areas, Spring City schools start classes in mid-August to allow a harvest-time recess. The town is near an elbow of the Tennessee River between Knoxville and Chattanooga.

Every available ambulance and all state highway patrol cars for miles around were dispatched here immediately. The children, all white, and ranging in age from 6 to 12, were taken to hospitals here and at nearby Dayton, Rockwood, Chattanooga and Crossville.

Sixty-seven nations, including the U. S. and Russia, participated at the Geneva conference, which was the outgrowth of the President's United Nations address Dec. 8, 1953. In that speech he proposed creation of an international atomic pool for peaceful purposes.

Just back from Switzerland, Strauss, who headed the American delegation, flew here to make a first-hand report to Eisenhower.

World Behind Ike Program

Strauss told newsmen that in his opinion the most noteworthy result of the Geneva meeting is this:

That it has "solidly lined up the scientists of the world behind the President's program" as set forth in his 1953 proposal.

Strauss said if there were any skepticism in that connection in advance of the conference, it had been entirely dispelled by the end of the meeting.

At his news conference today, Strauss was presented to reporters by the President. Wearing informal vacation clothes, Eisenhower smiled and said:

"I am not supposed to be here. I really forced my way into this show. But I have been in some kind of government service for something like 44 years."

President Praises Strauss

"In all that time I have never known a finer public servant than Lewis Strauss. Because I am so proud of the work that he and his associates have just performed at Geneva, I did myself the honor of coming down here with him to give him such a sendoff as I could with these simple words."

With that, Eisenhower left the conference room and turned the session over to Strauss.

In reply to questions, Strauss also said:

1. The U. S. needs to give young people more encouragement to get into the atomic science field. He said he got the impression at Geneva that Russia "more than we, is bending great effort to the training of atomic scientists."

2. The AEC may have something to say in the next few weeks or months about harnessing hydrogen power for peaceful purposes.

Each side accused the other of staging the clash in an attempt to sabotage tomorrow's U. N.-sponsored talks on Palestine frontier peace. Each said it is lodging a complaint with the U. N. Palestine armistice commission.

An Egyptian communiqué said the fighting began when three Israeli armored vehicles fired on an Egyptian post at Hamam, East Gaza, near the U. N. armistice demarcation line.

Nearby Israeli settlements joined in the attack, firing mortars on the post, the communiqué added.

Col. Salah Gohar, director of the Palestine department of the Egyptian war ministry, charged the Israelis had started the attack to exert pressure on Egypt in negotiations to ease frontier tension.

Dead, Injured Scattered 10 Car Lengths

29 Youngsters Age 6-12 Hurt; Driver Didn't See Freight

SPRING CITY, Tenn., Aug. 22 (P)—A 10-car freight train demolished a school bus loaded with about 40 children here today, killing at least 11 of them and injuring all the others.

The locomotives evidently were unable to take anything of value, the National Guard said, before they were discovered by the patrolling guardsmen, carrying out their tasks with full battle gear, including fixed bayonets.

The State highway patrol at Nashville said its reports had 17 definitely killed, but this figure could not be confirmed immediately from the several hospitals and funeral homes involved.

The Southern Railway train struck the bus broadside, scattering dead and injured grammar school children for 10 car-lengths along the track.

The accident happened just off the main street of this town of less than 2,000 population, two blocks from the elementary school the children had just left.

Hope For Peace Seen By Benson In Soviets' Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (P)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson told the Soviet farm delegation today that peace "must come in large measure from increased trust and understanding between the American and Russian nations."

Benson spoke at a luncheon at the Department of Agriculture. He called the Russians "good ambassadors" and commended them for the friendliness, good will and industry they showed during their five-week journey which carried them over 10,000 miles through the United States.

He also put in a plug for the free enterprise system. He told the Soviet Communists, who don't believe in freedom of business enterprise, that "our great abundance is due to our American way of life—our free enterprise system."

"It is our conviction," he added, "that most of the progress made in agriculture in America is due to the fact that our farmers have been free to make their own decisions."

He said "our harvest in America promises to be a rich one this year. In a sense it is richer because you, our Russian neighbors, have come to see it. Your presence here is a symbol that in this harvest there is hope not only of plenty, but of peace as well."

Butler Asks Relief For Tobacco Farmers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (P)—Sen. Butler (R-Md.) today urged President Eisenhower to declare five Maryland counties disaster areas eligible for federal disaster relief.

Butler made public a telegram to the President declaring "the tobacco farmers of my state are confronted with a calamitous situation, the seriousness of which prompts me to contact you."

"In the past two months the seasonal forces of the elements have created considerable havoc in parts of St. Marys, Charles, Calvert, Prince Georges and Anne Arundel counties of Maryland to the extent that approximately 50 per cent of the tobacco crop has been destroyed."

Butler's telegram said the losses were caused first by drought and then by the excessive rains of August.

Buses, Trolleys Roll In Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (P)—

Buses and streetcars rolled through the city's streets today for the first time in 52 days since little back-to-work confusion. There were unofficial estimates the passenger load was about 50 per cent below that normally carried before a strike idled the transit system July 1.

Buses carrying commuters from suburban Maryland were even less loaded than those in the capital itself. They picked up only about one-fourth their usual pre-strike fares.

Officials said it would take some time to determine just how big the bustle in business is and just how much, if any, of it will be permanent.

It was obvious that many people were clinging to the habits they picked up while they were without public transportation—either driving their own autos, riding in car pools or walking. Daily riders on buses and streetcars averaged some 400,000 a day before the strike.

The transit tieup, one of the longest in a major American city, was settled early yesterday when the city granted Capital Transit Co. fare increases to offset a 15-cent hourly wage boost for drivers and mechanics.

Crewman Dies When Explosion Hits Fuel Barge

SALISBURY, Md., Aug. 22 (P)—Earl Johnson of Mt. Vernon, Md., 41-year-old assistant engineer aboard the fuel barge J. A. Martin, was killed today in an explosion aboard the craft.

The 124-foot vessel was carrying more than 100,000 gallons of gasoline but the blast did not spread beyond a forward section of the ship. No one else was hurt.

The explosion occurred as the vessel was preparing to deliver gasoline to the American Oil Co. here. About 24 other men were working around and aboard the vessel and a plant spokesman said four big tanks nearby usually contained 1½-million gallons of gasoline.

The J. A. Martin is owned by Spentbush Fuel Transport Service, Inc., of New York City.

Johnson, of Mt. Vernon, Somerset County, was blown into the air and his clothing torn off. Witnesses said he was killed instantly.

The vessel's log showed he had started the pumping engines in the forward engine room and they had been running about 3 or 4 minutes when the blast occurred.

Shipwreck Probers Raise Motor Boat Power Issue

BALTIMORE, Aug. 22 (P)—Three questions were asked again and again today as a Coast Guard inquiry board began trying to put an official finger on the cause of the Levin J. Marvel shipwreck.

Fourteen vacationers lost their lives when the 64-year-old pleasure schooner capsized Aug. 12 in Chesapeake Bay off North Beach, Md., during gales prefacing Hurricane Connie. Nine passengers and four crewmen, including Capt. Mekling, survived.

The four-man board repeatedly asked Meckling and two other witnesses:

1. Was the vessel at times pushed by a motor boat—a condition which would have brought it under Coast Guard inspection regulations?

2. Was the vessel seaworthy?

3. Was the radio functioning when the Marvel foundered?

Hope For Peace Seen By Benson In Soviets' Visit

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Benson told the Soviet farm delegation today that peace "must come in large measure from increased trust and understanding between the American and Russian nations."

Benson spoke at a luncheon at the Department of Agriculture. He called the Russians "good ambassadors" and commended them for the friendliness, good will and industry they showed during their five-week journey which carried them over 10,000 miles through the United States.

He also put in a plug for the free enterprise system. He told the Soviet Communists, who don't believe in freedom of business enterprise, that "our great abundance is due to our American way of life—our free enterprise system."

"It is our conviction," he added, "that most of the progress made in agriculture in America is due to the fact that our farmers have been free to make their own decisions."

He said "our harvest in America promises to be a rich one this year. In a sense it is richer because you, our Russian neighbors, have come to see it. Your presence here is a symbol that in this harvest there is hope not only of plenty, but of peace as well."

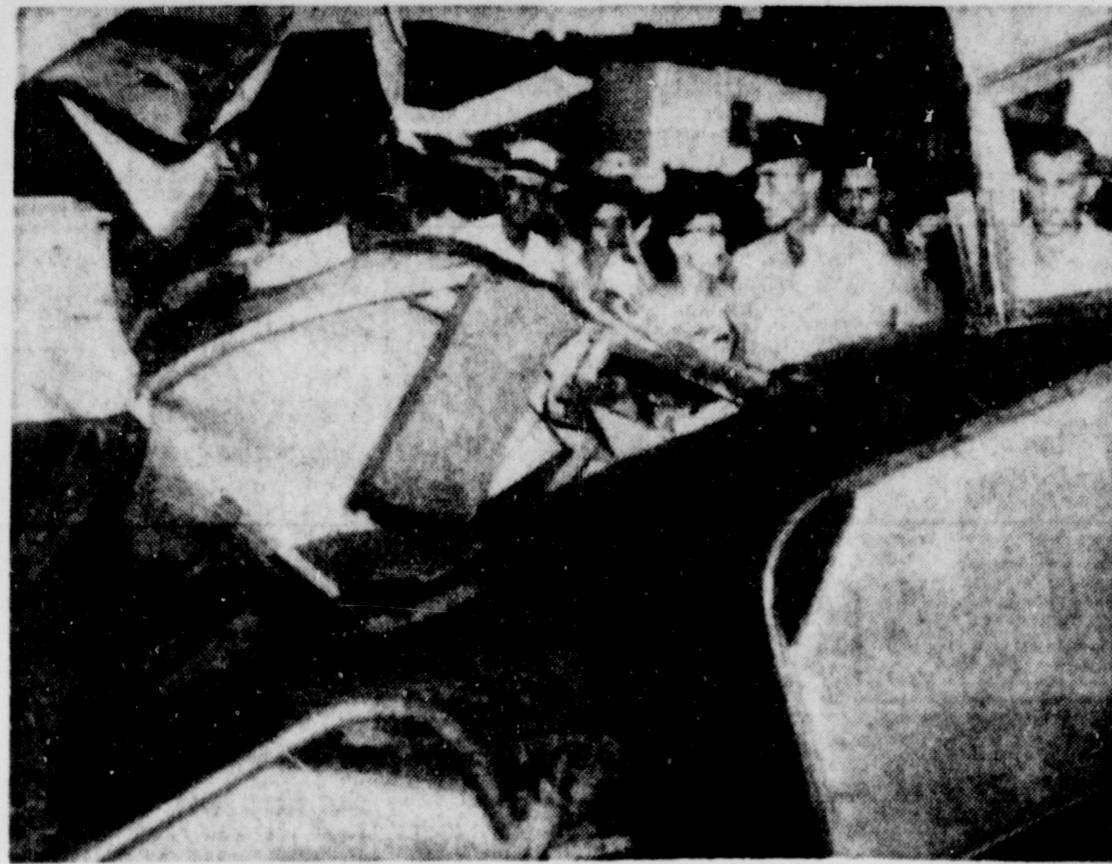

Butler Asks Relief For Tobacco Farmers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—Sen. Butler (R-Md.) today urged President Eisenhower to declare five Maryland counties disaster areas eligible for federal disaster relief.

Butler made public a telegram to the President declaring "the tobacco farmers of my state are confronted with a calamitous situation, the seriousness of which prompts me to contact you."

"In the past two months the seasonal forces of the elements have created considerable havoc in parts of St. Marys, Charles, Calvert, Prince Georges and Anne Arundel counties of Maryland to the extent that approximately 50 per cent of the tobacco crop has been destroyed."

Butler's telegram said the losses were caused first by drought and then by the excessive rains of August.

TRAIN SMASHES SCHOOL BUS—The smashed seats of a school bus are mute testimony to the force with which a freight train crashed into it yesterday at Spring City, Tenn., killing at least 11 children. Buses, Trolleys Roll In Capital

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 (AP)—

Buses and streetcars rolled through the city's streets today for the first time in 52 days with little back-to-work confusion. There were unofficial estimates the passenger load was about 50 per cent below that normally carried before a strike idled the transit system July 1.

Buses carrying commuters from suburban Maryland were even less loaded than those in the capital itself. They picked up only about one fourth their usual pre-strike fares.

Officials said it would take some time to determine just how big the fall-off in business is and just how much, if any, of it will be permanent.

It was obvious that many people were clinging to the habits they picked up while they were without public transportation—either driving their own autos, riding in car pools or walking. Daily riders on buses and streetcars averaged some 400,000 a day before the strike.

The transit tieup, one of the longest in a major American city, was settled early yesterday when the city granted Capital Transit Co. fare increases to offset a 15-cent hourly wage boost for drivers and mechanics.

Salem, W. Va., Hit By Flash Flood

SALEM, W. Va., Aug. 22 (AP)—A flash flood struck the Harrison County community of Salem a sudden and devastating blow this afternoon.

There was no reported loss of life or injury, but Max Barker of the Salem Fire Department said damage would run to tens of thousands of dollars.

He said some 50 families were evacuated from low-lying sections of the town, after the high water roared down Little Ten Mile Creek and Jacob's Run, which flow together within the corporate limits of Salem.

Town Faces Big Rebuilding Task

PUTNAM, Conn., Aug. 22 (AP)—

Civil Defense Director Al Gion said today it will take 10 years to rebuild this city of 10,000, wracked by three days of fire, flood and explosions.

Dirt and silt from the flood waters are piled 12 feet high in the center of the city. Power lines are down, gas is shut off. Martial law has been declared. Medical teams at opposite ends of town are giving precautionary typhoid shots.

Army purification centers are doing out a gallon of potable water daily to each resident. The local supply isn't safe and one man commented, "They keep telling us to boil our water, but there's nothing to boil it with."

The only telephones working are emergency ones set up at three locations.

Arthur Bove, editor of the weekly newspaper, the Windham County Observer, said nothing but the mailing list was saved.

Adenauer Slows German Arming

BONN, Germany, Aug. 22 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has quietly put the brakes on the speedy buildup of the new West German army.

Responsible government officials said today he has adopted a wait and see attitude toward a fast re-armament in view of his impending trip to Moscow and the October foreign ministers conference in Geneva.

Adenauer will go to the Soviet Union Sept. 8 to discuss primarily establishing Bonn-Moscow diplomatic relations and the outlook for German unity. The Big Four foreign ministers will tackle the thorny issue of unity at their conference in Geneva starting Oct. 27.

In Muerren, Switzerland, where Adenauer is vacationing, West German State Secretary Walter Hallstein said the Chancellor and his chief foreign policy advisers will decide tomorrow whether to send another note to the Kremlin before Adenauer takes off for Moscow. Hallstein said such a note if sent would deal with the "German question"—meaning German reunification. He emphasized it would not cancel or even delay the Moscow trip.

Municipal Write-In Votes Ruled Illegal

UPPER MARLBORO, Md., Aug. 22 (AP)—Judge John B. Gray Jr. ruled today that write-in votes are illegal in municipal elections unless specifically authorized by the State Legislature in the town's charter.

In so ruling in Prince Georges County Circuit Court, Gray held that Mayor John N. Torvestad and Councilman Mortimer E. Rian were the winners in the Colmar Manor election of July 12—rather than the write-in candidates who polled the most votes.

The write-in candidates, Harry W. Hill for mayor and Olin L. Merchant for councilman, appealed to a Town Council decision in favor of Torvestad and Rian.

Records introduced in evidence showed—and Meckling confirmed—that his ship was boarded by Coast Guard inspectors in August 1954.

It was under full sail and being pushed by a 20-foot motor-driven yawboat at the time.

In September, Meckling received a letter from the Coast Guard stating that the Marvel had proper safety equipment—life preservers, fire extinguishers, and so on—but did not have a valid certificate of inspection.

He was ordered to stop using the Marvel as a passenger vessel for hire until he had submitted it for inspection. While it was too small to come under inspection regulations for sailing vessels, the Coast Guard said, it came under the rules for self-propelled vessels because it sometimes used the yawboat as auxiliary power.

Meckling wrote the Coast Guard, records showed, that he used the yawboat only to haul passengers from the schooner and for aid in docking.

The Coast Guard replied that the Marvel could be considered a sailing vessel—which would have removed her from Coast Guard jurisdiction—only if she could get under way and continue at all.

Fashion once dictated that the ultra-correct wedding must be in June. Today October is nearly as popular, and other beautiful weddings are held throughout the year. A call to the army or the time of the groom's vacation — a number of changes have united to dissipate the idea of the "June Bride."

The concepts of wedding etiquette are not as they were a number of years ago. Many traditional ideas have changed. Not too many years ago a family of social prominence wouldn't have considered having the daughter's wedding reception anywhere else but in the family home. That would have been thought very undignified. Today most of the large and important receptions are held in clubs and hotels.

Not so long ago it was taken for granted that only intimate friends of the family were invited to a wedding reception, and whether they attended or not, they usually sent a gift. Today, when mere acquaintances are invited — for business as well as social reasons, sending a gift is not obligatory if the person doesn't attend the wedding. Of course, if one does accept, a gift is sent. And, it is always sent to the bride — even though the sender knows only the groom.

When you enter the church, an usher comes forward to greet you. He asks, if he doesn't already know, "Are you a friend of the bride or groom?" You answer that you are a friend of the bride, let's say. He then offers you his right arm, escorts you up the center aisle to your place on the left-hand side, the side of the church for friends of the bride's family. On the right side of the main aisle, you see the bridegroom's family and friends.

THE CHESAPEAKE & POTOMAC TELEPHONE COMPANY OF BALTIMORE CITY

Items Stolen At W. Va. Home

West Virginia authorities are investigating the report of a robbery Sunday at the home of James Hare, Route 28, near the Perrabee Lounge.

Trooper Charles Oliver of the West Virginia State Police Detachment at Keyser said yesterday that a man and woman, driving a 1955 blue and white convertible, stopped at the Hare home and asked to use the telephone.

Hare's son, Richard, took the couple to the second floor where the phone was located. Shortly afterwards, police were told, the couple left with a shotgun, revolver, phonograph and several watches. No other details were available.

Local police are investigating the breaking and entering Sunday of the Valley Produce Inc., establishment on Queen Street.

Albert Windish, manager, told police yesterday that his place had been entered during the night, but the only things missing were an empty cash box and keys to the company's trucks. The company's money is placed in a bank over the weekend, Windish said.

Police said the intruder entered by a small window at the side of the building. The window was only 10 inches by 14 inches, which led police to believe a youngster must have been put through the window to unlock the door.

Council Grants Sale Permit For Yuletide

Don't look now but Christmas is just around the corner.

At least it appears so if an action by the Mayor and Council yesterday can be an indication.

Council granted permission to Beta Sigma Phi Sorority to sell Christmas decorations at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets December 22 and 23.

Permission was given under jurisdiction of the Police Department.

Police Probe Attempt To Enter Store

Police are investigating the attempted entering Saturday night of Storers Confectionery, 138 Virginia Avenue.

Detective Joseph H. Stitzer said three bolts were removed from the pad lock on the front door, but entrance was not gained.

City Receives Interest From Bonds

Interest amounting to $1,800 has been realized by the city from some of the sewage treatment plant bond funds which were invested in government bonds until needed for the project.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday the interest came from $500,000 of the $1,500,000 which was invested at different dates.

He said payments on the sewage treatment project are such that the city can re-invest $300,000 of the $500,000 on which the interest was paid.

Harold T. Shaffer, 533 Central Avenue, appeared before council to apprise them of a bad road condition. The street has not been oiled, there are holes six to eight inches deep and resulting dirt makes it impossible to keep a house clean, he said, adding he would "rather have smoke than dust."

Cadillac

Gasoline Doing its Best!

We doubt whether gasoline was ever put to more effective use than when it burns in the combustion chambers of the great 1955 Cadillac engine.

It provides power and eagerness and responsiveness that have no counterpart on the world's highways.

And how quietly it goes about its work! Even at the full legal limit of the road, the car is so silent in its operation that you can actually hear the gentle ticking of the electric clock.

And how efficient gasoline is in a new Cadillac. In fact, owners report that a single tankful is usually sufficient to carry this big, luxurious car through a full day of normal driving.

If you haven't yet learned for yourself what gasoline can do in the "car of cars", we suggest that you come in soon for a truly thrilling demonstration.

And after you have returned from your demonstration drive, we hope that you will remain for some very special news about cost and delivery.

You will find, for instance, that you can now become the owner of a new Cadillac after the shortest waiting period in many, many years.

And because of our extremely low used-car inventory, you will discover that we can give you a surprisingly liberal allowance on your present car.

You will find, in short, that Cadillac ownership has never before been as wonderful... or as practical... or as imminent as it is today!

Why not stop in soon and see for yourself? We think you'll find a combination of favorable circumstances that will be difficult to resist!

At least it appears so if an action by the Mayor and Council yesterday can be an indication.

Council granted permission to Beta Sigma Phi Sorority to sell Christmas decorations at the corner of Baltimore and Centre Streets December 22 and 23.

Permission was given under jurisdiction of the Police Department.

City Receives Interest From Bonds

Interest amounting to $1,800 has been realized by the city from some of the sewage treatment plant bond funds which were invested in government bonds until needed for the project.

Finance Commissioner John J. Long told the Mayor and Council yesterday the interest came from $500,000 of the $1,500,000 which was invested at different dates.

He said payments on the sewage treatment project are such that the city can re-invest $300,000 of the $500,000 on which the interest was paid.

Harold T. Shaffer, 533 Central Avenue, appeared before council to apprise them of a bad road condition. The street has not been oiled, there are holes six to eight inches deep and resulting dirt makes it impossible to keep a house clean, he said, adding he would "rather have smoke than dust."

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plates dropped, slipped or wobbled at just the wrong time. Do not let this happen to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Hold false teeth more firmly, they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug counter.

Gasoline Doing its Best!

We doubt whether gasoline was ever put to more effective use than when it burns in the combustion chambers of the great 1955 Cadillac engine.

It provides power and eagerness and responsiveness that have no counterpart on the world's highways.

And how quietly it goes about its work! Even at the full legal limit of the road, the car is so silent in its operation that you can actually hear the gentle ticking of the electric clock.

Cleanup Or Kao Due For Boxing

Sports have had an important part in the molding of American character. Not only have young people's minds and bodies been built by their participation in athletics but the stars on the sports stage—amateur and professional—have by their examples done much to influence youth.

There is reason to wonder whether U. S. presidents have been building lights to as many youngsters as have such sports greats as Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Bobby Jones, Jim Thorpe and hosts of others who come readily to mind.

This role of sports makes it all the more disturbing to read that an organization such as the National Boxing Association, representing boxing in every state except New York, has come to the unanimous decision to ask Congress to investigate ring activities.

Obviously greatly concerned by charges linking boxing and racketeers, the association asked Congress to direct a committee to undertake the inquiry in order that "the good repute of the sport of boxing shall be fully restored in public opinion."

Boxing has always had its advocates and its critics. In recent years there has been a growing tendency on the part of the public to question the interests of those controlling the sport. The time to clear away all those doubts is now. Through television, boxing is presented to more people than ever before.

Now that youngsters, addicted as youth is to hero-worshipping, have this sport brought to them freely, the industry which presents boxing should be clear of the taint of the rackets. Boxing should be cleaned up or counted out.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

It Could Be In A Book

Miss Jean Muir, the actress who tried to clear herself of criticism by appearing before the House Committee on Un-American Activities, made this statement: "... When the Spanish Republic was elected and then Franco attempted to overthrow it, it seemed to me to be an abrogation of the rights of free people to vote for the head of a government which they wanted. Of course, after the Communists took over the Loyalist party, I became less and less involved in it. The one thing I can remember doing definitely was at an auction at which I auctioned off a picture. ... Because of the confusion about the picture business previously discussed, and the Artists' Front to Win the War, it is possible this really was the organization at which the picture was made with Rockwell Kent."

Now, I never got excited about Miss Muir, not knowing her and never having seen or heard her. But I would like to know when "the Spanish Republic was elected"; what kind of an election was it? Such matters can be looked up in a book. Miss Muir got all excited about the Spanish Republic but what about Finland or Poland or South Korea? Why would one become more excited about the Spanish Republic than about any other?

So let's look at the facts:

On April 14, 1931, King Alfonso of Spain left his country and throne, without abdicating and Alcala Zamora set up a government with himself as president. There was no election. However, on June 28, there was an election and the Republican-Socialist coalition won by a huge majority. A new constitution was adopted, after the election, providing among other things for universal suffrage. On December 10, Zamora was elected president under the terms of the new constitution.

On August 10, 1932, a conservative revolt led by General Jose Sanjurjo occurred and was suppressed. On September 25, Catalonia became autonomous. On January 8, 1933, the Syndicalists and Anarchists of Barcelona revolted which indicated that the lower classes were as dissatisfied as the upper classes. On November 19, 1933, an election was held which gave the Right parties 44 per cent and the Left parties only 21 per cent. Coalition Ministries, following this election, could not stand. On October 4, 1934, the Catholic Popular Action party joined the cabinet of Premier Alejandro Lerroux. The next day, the Left parties called a general strike.

On February 16, 1936, new elections were held and a Popular Front of Republicans, Socialists, Syndicalists and Communists won a decisive victory. Manuel Azana formed a cabinet; decided without legality to remove President Zamora, which was done on April 10, 1936. On July 18, the Spanish Civil War broke out when the army chiefs in Spanish Morocco rebelled. This revolt, led by General Francisco Franco and General Emilio Mola, spread throughout the country. Italian and German "volunteers" joined the insurgents; Russia supplied the Communist-controlled government. On October 1, 1936, General Franco assumed the position of chief of the Spanish State. The Civil War ended on March 28, 1939, with Franco in control of the country.

I am not trying to show off my knowledge. I looked this up in "An Encyclopedia Of World History," compiled by Professor William L. Langer of Harvard, which Miss Muir could do as well if she took the pains. But I cannot see in all this why an American who was not a Communist or a Fascist could get all steamed up over it.

Miss Muir says that she worried about the "abrogation of the rights of free people to vote for the head of a government which they wanted." That happened in a great many countries and I never heard of Miss Muir getting excited about the manipulations in Czechoslovakia which resulted in the suicide or murder of Jan Masaryk.

Then Miss Muir said that "after the Communists took over the Loyalist party, I became less and less involved in it." I take it that Miss Muir was involved in the Loyalist party. Why? Should an American citizen be involved in a foreign party? Furthermore, what would Miss Muir say if one told her that there was no Loyalist party in Spain? So, what was she involved in?

I think the counsel for the House Committee on Un-American Activities might have looked into a book and asked a few questions along these lines.

Orphans Of The Calm

Casablanca Had Smell Of Sickness, Hatred, Fear

By Stewart Alsop

This delayed report was sent by Stewart Alsop on the eve of the outbreak of the North African riots.

CASABLANCA

A sick city gives forth a sort of smell, a special emanation of its own. The sick smell is always much the same, whether in Cairo during the riots or in Prague in the first weeks after the coup or in Shanghai just before the Communists got it, or in Jerusalem during the Palestine terror. This city has the smell of sickness, which is the smell of hatred and fear.

The sickness here is like that of a person in a dangerous fever, before the crisis has been reached. The crisis was expected August 20, the second anniversary of the day when the French deposed Sultan Sidi Mohammed ben-Youssef, a self-regarding and luxury-loving man who has become, thanks to the French, the symbol of Moroccan nationalism. A great blood-letting was expected on this day between the ruling French and the rebellious Moroccans. Newspapermen, who share with vultures a common interest in death and disaster, have flocked here to be in at the kill.

The blood-letting did not develop early in the day. But as this is written the day has not yet ended and the crowd cannot be ignored. Anything — a fire out of hand or a few ill-advised shots — may start very bad trouble.

Pile Out Of Truck

So far, the trouble has been small and sporadic. Here is what it has been like. You are riding in an open car behind a French jeep patrol, through the "New Medina" — the shoddy, glaring Arab section. The patrol leader, suspicious, stops a closed Arab funeral truck, painted white, with "Pompey Funerals Musselman" written on the side. No less than 15 Moroccans, ranking from boys to old men, pile out of the little truck. Just what they planned to do, no one knows. There are no weapons

But we also agree with Pat Henry in judging the future by the past. Pat figured you could tell what was in front by what's chugging you.

That's as nutritious a brand of reasoning as shaking sheep's knucklebones up in committee.

All we have learned at Geneva is he who laughs last has a Russian accent.

Replacing an iron curtain with a barbed wire fence is not progress diplomatically. What happened when Nobel's dynamite was diverted to peaceful gimmicks?

ville" on the right. "Bidon" is French for gasoline can, and a bidonville is a town, or rather a city, built entirely of flattened gasoline cans, and crawling with humanity.

Breeding Silence

In the peculiarly casual manner of French soldiery, troops are spread out along the road between the Arab settlement and the bidonville. There are 45,000 Arabs in this bidonville, and 20,000 more behind the closed shutters of the Arab settlement. But there is no Arab to be seen, except for a rare, quick shadow, and a brooding silence reigns, broken only by the intermittent cackling of chickens and an occasional rifle shot.

The shots are fired mostly in warning. The corpse of one Arab, who did not heed the warning quickly enough, has been dragged off to one side. Two or three other Arabs were killed earlier. A French non-com, wounded by a shot from somewhere in the silent depths of the bidonville, has been taken off to the hospital.

At the moment there are hardly more dead and wounded than one might expect traffic to inflict on a crowded holiday in an American city. But this is a sick city and both French and Moroccans are perfectly aware that the blood-letting can come at any time.

It can come, for example, if the Arab leaders become convinced that negotiation with the French is futile, and pass the word to the mobs to move against the French. Or the blood-letting can start if the French extremists gain the upper hand and the military are permitted to "teach the Arabs a lesson" by shelling and bombing Arab towns, as in Syria and Algeria after the war.

It will be a long, long time before this sick city is well. Here in Casablanca, and throughout Morocco, fear and hatred have bitten too deep to be erased and forgotten.

Food Myths Vanishing But Some Still Persist

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

In a recent article I wrote about food myths that are vanishing, we are better informed along this line than were our grandparents; consequently only a few conceptions remain. Yet several days after the article appeared, I received two letters from readers, the contents of which show that folklore dies hard.

A Chicagoan wrote: "A friend of mine mixes her foods and I don't know how she can digest them. Today she ate a piece of cherry pie, a piece of peach pie, and a large cucumber with no ill effects."

The other letter, written by a Brooklyn housewife, concerned a family problem: "Our children like milk with their meals. My husband says cold milk is not good with lamb or pork chops. Does this practice harm the stomach?"

Here's one thing learned from the Versailles write-offs in the Hall of Mirrors. Peace treaties are not enforced by mere pens and ink.

them. Today she ate a piece of cherry pie, a piece of peach pie, and a large cucumber with no ill effects."

The stomach is a bear for punishment and can take a lot without a whimper. The organ contains will endure anything short of poison hydrochloric acid and enzymes and son and green apples. It does not care whether food is hot or cold, lamb or pork, cucumbers or pie.

On the other hand, some persons are allergic to certain foods or combinations. Others develop an idiosyncrasy or have a psychological reaction due to past experiences.

A St. Charles, Ill., reader relates her experience with migraine. She is 45 years old and has suffered since the age of 17, at which time she started drinking coffee and cola drinks. The attacks have lessened considerably since she stopped using coffee, tea, cola drinks and chocolate.

"It takes a powerful emotional upheaval to bring one on now and they were almost weekly occurrences before," she writes.

Our reader may have found the solution and possibly the attacks will cease entirely if she continues to omit the offending foods from her diet and remains tranquil. Moreover, migraine frequently disappears spontaneously after the attack.

A Chicago north sider objected to my statement that many victims of migraine are emotional and easily upset. "It is not the patient but the doctors who become frustrated, angry, and hostile to the limit of speech," he writes.

According to the preface to the book "Treatment of Disease," edited by Dr. Van Deilen, will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

him go. When you leave, 20 minutes later, the Arabs are still leaning against the wall, their legs quivering from the strain. The last thing you remember is their brown hands, the veins swollen, against the dirty white of the wall, and the veiled look of fear and hatred in their eyes.

Or later, you go to a place near a quarry, where trouble has been reported. There is a line of German-made tanks, with soldiers sitting on them in the hot sun, talking and joking. Just to one side, there is a long, dusty road with Arab houses on the left and a "bidon-

The other letter, written by a Brooklyn housewife, concerned a family problem: "Our children like milk with their meals. My husband says cold milk is not good with lamb or pork chops. Does this practice harm the stomach?"

A St. Charles, Ill., reader relates her experience with migraine. She is 45 years old and has suffered since the age of 17, at which time she started drinking coffee and cola drinks. The attacks have lessened considerably since she stopped using coffee, tea, cola drinks and chocolate.

"It takes a powerful emotional upheaval to bring one on now and they were almost weekly occurrences before," she writes.

Our reader may have found the solution and possibly the attacks will cease entirely if she continues to omit the offending foods from her diet and remains tranquil. Moreover, migraine frequently disappears spontaneously after the menopause.

A Chicago north sider objected to my statement that many victims of migraine are emotional and easily upset. "It is not the patient but the doctors who become frustrated, angry, and hostile

Pirates-Giants Stopped By Rain

Twin Bill Must Be Reset In New York

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 22 (UPI)—A flash rain storm washed out a scheduled doubleheader between the New York Giants and Pittsburgh Pirates today for the second straight day.

The rains poured down in the top half of the fifth inning with the score tied 1-1.

Yesterday a half hour before game time heavy thunderstorms forced postponement of a doubleheader. The two games were rescheduled for today, an open date for both teams.

Now, since this is the last visit of the Giants to Pittsburgh, the games have to be reset for another open date. They will have to be played in New York.

The Pirates won the series opener Friday 8-3, and the Giants came back to win the second game of the series in a 12-inning affair Saturday, 14-9.

One was out in the top of the fifth when the deluge struck, making play impossible.

The Pirates scored in the firstinning when Eddie O'Brien walked, stole second and scored on Roberto Clemente's single to center. The Giants came back in the second to knot the count. Dusty Rhodes walked and went to second when Don Mueller also walked. Then Hank Thompson brought Rhodes home with a sharp single to center.

The Elks and Moose tangle Friday at Stitche Field in the second game of their series.

Finalists will engage in a best-of-five series for the league championship.

The Elks clinched first place yesterday by edging the Eagles by the score of 2-1 at Penn Avenue Field. The Elks won the season series from the F.O.E. team, four games to two.

Al Sheetz walked Roy Lester with the bases loaded in the 7th and final frame to break a 1-1 deadlock in yesterday's contest.

"Pooh" Orndorff singled with one out but was forced at second. Bob Price hit moved Underdonk to third. Pence was intentionally walked, loading the bases. Then Lester drew a pass, forcing over the deciding tally.

Underdonk wound up the regular season with a 17-5 record while Sheetz has a 15-4 mark. Sheetz walked four and Underdonk issued only one free ticket.

Orndorff obtained two of the Elks' three hits. "Red" Ingram smacked a double and Jim Kienhorf lapped a triple for the Eagles. Jim Fradisca and Bill Welsh, of the Eagles, and Johnny Cox and Bob Price of the Elks, starred afielid. Score:

Housing Unit Activities Are Listed

The city has completed ahead of schedule the elimination of sub-standard dwellings under a cooperative agreement with the Housing Authority of Cumberland. This was indicated yesterday in a report by the city attached to the annual report of the Housing Authority and which was read at the meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Elimination Asked

The authority asked the city for the number of sub-standard units eliminated since March 13, 1950, under the cooperative agreement. It said that unless completed, it was doubtful if further building or planning of more low-rent housing as Congress may permit would be possible unless the equivalent elimination was carried out.

The city's report showed 157 units eliminated and this is believed at least two more than the required number which was to have been completed by 1957.

The Housing Authority said congressional limitations have prohibited building or planning new units during the past year but the authority has been making an effort to ward obtaining approval for construction of an administrative office and a 12 by 24 foot wooden shed for storage of maintenance equipment. This is unsatisfactory economically plus the fact it ties up an apartment which would be used for housing a family.

Redecoration Starts

All units at Jane Frazier Village in Maplewood and Benjamin Banneker Homes on Frederick Street are occupied with exception of one which is being redecorated to re-lease a family.

It was noted that a rotation system of redecorating apartments was started in the year ending March 31 and in all probability the exterior painting of Jane Frazier Village will be performed sometime next year. The report said streets bounding the Village are becoming dusty since they have been oiled only once.

The report was signed by Rev. H. M. Richardson, chairman, who said membership on the board re-nains unchanged. A financial report listed assets of $1,835,392.93 and net operating income available for reduction of the federal subsidy amounting to $2,865.05.

Housing Unit Activities Are Listed

The city has completed ahead of schedule the elimination of sub-standard dwellings under a co-operation agreement with the Housing Authority of Cumberland. This was indicated yesterday in a annual report of the Housing Authority and which was read at the meeting of the Mayor and Council.

Elimination Asked

The authority asked the city for the number of sub-standard units eliminated since March 13, 1950, under the cooperative agreement. It said that unless completed, it was doubtful if further building or planning of more low-rent housing as Congress may permit would be possible unless the equivalent elimination was carried out.

The city's report showed 157 units eliminated and this is believed at least two more than the required number which was to have been completed by 1957.

The Housing Authority said congressional limitations have prohibited building or planning new units during the past year, but the authority has been making an effort to nains unchanged. A financial report listed assets of $1,833,923 and net operating income available for reduction of the federal subsidy amounting to $2,885,05.

Shareholders of Second National Bank yesterday ratified a 25 per cent stock dividend.

At a specially-convened meeting, 13,721 out of 16,000 outstanding shares voted. Distribution will be made to stockholders of record at the close of business today. The Comptroller of the Currency in Washington had previously given approval, subject to yesterday's ratification.

It is planned to mail out new certificates September 1 in the ratio of one new share for each four presently owned. Fractional shares will not be issued but script certificates, representing multiples of one quarter share, will be given. These quarter share certificates will be traded at $12.50 each so that shareholders may round out their holdings to full shares at a market value equal to $50 a share of bank stock.

This current 25 per cent stock dividend is the second in recent years. In 1950, the bank paid a dividend of 45.5 per cent or five new shares for every 11 shares then outstanding. The regular annual cash dividend was increased to $2 a share in 1947 and has been declared annually since.

Norris Named Probationary Fireman Here

William R. Norris is a new probationary member of the Fire Department.

Norris' appointment was approved yesterday by the Mayor and Council and was effective as of August 19.

Council granted permission to the State Roads Commission to place a historical marker on a small city-leased plot west of the Narrows Bridge.

The marker will be placed in 1956, according to G. Bates Charles, district engineer, who is carrying the legend: "The Great National Road from the Potomac to the Mississippi; first marked along an old buffalo trace by Nemacolin, a Delaware Indian, for the Ohio Company; used by Washington and Braddock; construction authorized by Congress 1806; begun 1811; opened to the Ohio 1818, the first great road westward for the course of the Empire."

The marker will be similar to another located in that vicinity and headed "The Narrows."

Council heard a report from parking meter Inspector Harry Whisner which showed receipts of $702.18 the week of August 14 compared to $716.45 the week of August 7 or a decrease of $14.27.

C. L. Brotemarkle, assistant superintendent of Evitts Creek Water Company reported both Lake Gordon and Lake Koon one inch above the crest of the spillway. Water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 83,460,000 gallons compared to 98,780,000 the same period a year ago.

Referred to the police and fire chiefs and city attorney with power to act was a request from Rev. C. A. Warfield to use a vacant lot adjoining Zimmerle Iron Works for a revival meeting.

Ads Feature WM Railway

The Western Maryland Railway is being featured in page advertisements in a number of major national magazines.

The advertisement repeats a picture taken on the long trestle just west of Meyersdale.

The Timken Roller Bearing Company is pointing out that this same picture was used last year when the railway had 50 cars equipped with roller bearings.

Today, the ad states, the railway has 150 seventy-ton covered freight cars with 17 piggy-back cars equipped with roller bearing wheels.

Four hundred more are on order, it is stated. The cars with this type of wheels being used by Western Maryland would form a train five miles long.

South West North East

1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass

3 ♦ Pass 3 ♣ Pass

3 NT Pass Pass Pass

Before analyzing the bidding, let's consider the result:

West's fourth-highest heart lead, with East putting up the queen, gave declarer a problem.

If West had the club ace, South's correct play was to take the first heart trick; but if East had the club ace, a hold-up play in hearts would be needed to cut the defenders' communications. South guessed wrong and held up, and the result was a one-trick penalty.

It would be fruitless to speculate about South's proper play;

there are far more important questions concerning the bidding.

Observe that North-South could have made six clubs against any defense.

Who went wrong, assuming there was a bidding error? Beyond doubt, South's opening bid was correct, and so was North's two-club response. Then South's club raise was wholly logical, as was North's three-spade rebid.

From that point on, however, both partners displayed some timidity.

With North "reversing" his responses, South might well have concluded that there was no need to stay within the game level at notrump--his potential support of a club contract made at least a game contract in the minor suit look safe. Indeed, a good case could be made for South's bidding four hearts (as an obvious cue bids) over North's three spades.

By the same token, however,

North himself might have persisted in clubs instead of accepting the three-notrump contract.

In any case, a safe game should have been reached even if the slam was not bid.

Retiring Railroader Plans To Travel

John Edwards Jr., the retiring general manager of the B&O Railroad's Eastern Region who was once superintendent of the Cumberland Division, plans to do a little traveling now that he has the time.

Edwards, who retired from the railroad Monday after 44 years service, spent most of his time traveling but now, he said, "I'll mean going back over the old places which I passed by in the hurried nature of my work."

In 44 years, Edwards has journeyed over almost every inch of the B&O's 12,000 miles of track. He joined the railroad in 1911 and in four decades has watched the industry improve in size, efficiency and safety.

Edwards was assistant Cumberland Division engineer for a period of time following World War I. From 1941 to 1946 he was superintendent of the Cumberland Division.

Resident Praises Flood Efforts

A letter on behalf of West Side residents whose homes and property were in the highwater sector last week has lauded efforts of city officials and workers.

J. Mitchell, 118 Winton Place, addressed a letter to the Mayor and Council in which he mentioned the Police and Street Departments, Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn and Street Commissioner William H. Burcholtz for the job done during the time the Potomac River went past flood stage last week. He said their efforts alleviated the tension and fear which accompany threat of high water.

Mayor Roy W. Eves also singled out the auxiliary police and regular police for praise; the newspapers and radio stations for keeping the public informed and said the city received accurate information from the Weather Bureau which enabled the residents to be informed at all times.

Many Exhibits Will Be Judged At Fairgo Today

Wide Variety Of Entries Shown

Judging of thousands of entries of many kinds and descriptions, will begin at the 38th annual Cumberland Fair, this morning at 9 o'clock. A total of $10,000 has been allotted in cash prizes and premiums.

All day yesterday, up until 5 p.m., exhibitors from the Tri-State area rolled into Fairgo with cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, pets, farm produce, flowers, handicraft, and art work of so many varieties, it was difficult to place them all.

Homemaker Exhibits

In the main exhibition hall, Homemakers and 4-H Clubs dominate the exhibits of canned goods, clothing, needlework, baked goods and handicraft.

It is here that Homemakers Clubs are competing with each other in their Theme Booth competition. The theme booths this year, in the opinion of fair officials and others who previewed them yesterday, are the best ever undertaken here.

Each booth, measuring no more than five feet square, portrays a message at a glance, in health, safety, religion, education, patriotism, peace, neighborliness, or similar theme. Each club has kept its theme a closely guarded secret until time to display it.

There is probably a little less exhibited in the main hall this year, than in previous years, but what is there is much more outstanding than in past seasons.

The poultry house is filled. The geese and duck ponds are overflowing with almost too many prize geese and ducks. At one end of a prize exhibition of every type of native turkey and chicken, is a rabbit exhibit, and several lots of pigeons are also to be seen.

No Prizes By Default

In the cattle barns, for the first time in fair history, there will be no prizes by default. Every class of dairy and beef cattle has competition. Some of the best herds in three states and seven or eight counties are represented.

An added attraction this year, for the first time here is a showing of prized Garrett County Suffolk sheep. These quiet little fellows with their white fleece and coal black faces and feet and lower legs, are among the best animals shown.

The 4-H Boys and Future Farmers of America groups are out-doing each other in their beef and dairy calf shows. One barn was not enough to hold all the entries. A second barn was opened for them, and it was filled by mid-afternoon. Every popular area breed is represented in the calf show, just as they are in the herd shows.

Among show herds exhibited, certain to attract much attention, is the W. G. Merrells group from his Longview Angus Farm of Burlington, W. Va.

Merrells is showing six bulls and eight females of his high-priced and greatly prized Angus herd.

Angus Herd

In the bull group is listed "Ellington 1953," the Longview Junior Herd Sire that is a grandson of "Ellington 500," and out of daughter of Eileen 487, known throughout the Angus breed as the "Wonder Bull."

"Longview Emulator 4," a grandson of old "Envious Envirous" and out of "Blackcap Express" granddaughter of a famous old bull of the Central West, "Bell Boy M. K." is also shown.

In the female group of Merrells' herd is "Longview Envirous Juana Erica," a daughter of Envirous Envirous" out of a daughter of "Envious Blackcap B.O.," the 1939 International Grand Champion.

Ralph F. McHenry, retired county agent, who was walking around yesterday looking over the entries commented, "this is the finest bunch of cattle every exhibited here. Everyone ought to see them."

Joseph M. Steger, county agent, who succeeded McHenry is superintendent of the cattle show, assisted by Eugene Hopkins.

The agriculture displays are in charge of Miss Leona M. Phillips, superintendent, assisted by Floyd Buser and Mrs. R. F. McHenry. These displays, including feed corn, hybrid corn, small grains, seeds, hay, alfalfa, buckwheat, are shown under the grandstand.

Here also will be found beautiful displays of honey from four different exhibitors. John Linder is superintendent and the judge is George J. Adams, apiculturist from the University of Maryland.

Honey and Syrup

Alongside the honey exhibits under the grandstand can be seen an outstanding display of maple syrup, maple sugar and maple products. At least two displays of maple products are shown, one from nearby Pennsylvania and the other from Garrett County. It was noted that the maple industry is growing, and both exhibitors show syrup and sugar in modern, at-

Weather

Brief showers last evening followed in the wake of threatening skies most of yesterday afternoon. Very little rainfall, however, was recorded at the weather bureau station in Constitution Park. High for the day reached 89 degrees, while the 24-hour low was 62. At 8:30 last night the mercury registered 73 degrees. Today's forecast is fair and not at all.

Parade Opens Cumberland Fair

Heavy Rainstorm At Fairgo Cancels First Night Show

Rain poured down last night at the Cumberland Fair grounds cancelling the stage show and fire works display, scheduled as opening night attractions. Rain checks were issued, good for any night this week except Saturday.

Council To Set Budget Tomorrow

The Mayor and Council will meet tomorrow at 9 a. m. to set the levy and act on the budget for the 1955-56 fiscal year. Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday.

That is one day before the August 25 deadline as prescribed by law.

It appears a certainty the tax rate will increase a minimum of 12 cents although some sources have hinted it could go one or two cents higher. Adding the minimum estimate to the current rate of $1.36, that would make the new tax rate at least $1.48.

One of the primary considerations which council has had in its budget talks over the past few weeks is the question of pay raises for city employees. It has been estimated unofficially that if all pay proposals discussed were enacted it will cost between $60,000 and $70,000.

Commissioners have reported that in every instance they are attempting to pare budgets "to the bone."

All have expressed themselves as opposed to any increase in taxes but are faced with the necessity of doing so.

40-Hour Week Ad Gets Results

A good many men apparently would like a job in which they would work eight hours a day, five days a week.

As of yesterday afternoon the man who placed the following ad last Friday had 57 letters of response:

"Man to work 8 hours daily, 5 days a week, to replace one who didn't. Write Box 631-A c/o Times-News."

Winchester Man Is Fined $250

A Winchester, Va. man sentenced to 90 days in the Allegany County jail yesterday was released after paying fines totaling $250.

Trial Magistrate Donald W. Mason sentenced Melvin Kenneth Powers, 43, after he pleaded guilty to charges resulting from an automobile accident Sunday morning on Route 51, east of Cumberland.

The show will be followed by a fireworks display, set piece and rockets all around the track.

Fifteen spectacular exhibits are included in the hour-long demonstration, with the feature being a fireworks presentation of a "Battle At Sea."

The Bicentennial Queen and the Little Queen, scheduled to have been presented last night just before the stage show, will be presented tonight, as will also the Allegany County Farm Queen.

Exhibition halls and the midway will be open this afternoon and tonight until 11 p. m.

Boy Hurt In Freak Mishap

A 15-year-old McHenry boy was hospitalized yesterday afternoon as a result of a freak auto accident which occurred in the front yard of his home.

Admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital was Mark Clayton Snyder, who sustained a fractured right leg and multiple contusions and abrasions, according to police.

The accident occurred about 1:45 p. m. yesterday as Santina Marinao, of Washington, Pa., was driving north on the Marsh Hill Road in McHenry near the intersection of Route 15.

Police said the accelerator on the Marinao car stuck and the vehicle apparently went out of control across the street into the front yard striking the boy.

Investigating officer is Tfc. Robert D. Henline.

Thomas F. Conlon Jr., manager of the Conlon Insurance and Travel Agency will be guest speaker Thursday at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club in Central YMCA. His talk will be on the subject, "New Trends In Travel."

State Accepts Deep Creek Lake Area For Park

Commission Votes To Pay $72,850

The State Commission of Forests and Parks yesterday voted to accept some 57 acres of Deep Creek Lake frontage for $72,850, the value placed upon it last Tuesday in Garrett County Circuit Court. It will be used for a park site along the lake.

Joseph F. Kaylor, director of the State Department of Forests and Parks, met yesterday at Oakland with the members of the commission and after lengthy discussion it was decided to accept the land.

The two-day trial of a condemnation suit involving the State Department of Forests and Parks and Fulches P. Smith, of Oakland, the land owner, ended with a $72,850 verdict.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor of the church, notes that Miss Schoenfeld comes here with highest recommendations and excellent training. She received her training at Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Ill., and has a keen interest in Sunday School and youth work. She also possesses considerable talent and interest in music and drama.

Kaylor also pointed out that the commission voted to cooperate with the Upper Potomac River Commission on a proposed additional dam to be built in Garrett County.

Part of the State Department's program is to manage water sheds and help maintain stream flow in all streams of the state for the benefit of all water users, Kaylor added.

With the construction of an additional dam in that area it would create jobs as well as recreation areas. Members of the commission stayed at the William James Hotel in Oakland last night.

Company making best appearance, $25 first prize to Keyser Volunteer Fire Department; $15 second prize to Grantsville.

Company with largest number of men marching, $25 to Fort Ashby; $15 to District No. 16 Firemen.

Company making best appearance with apparatus, first prize $25 to Barton; second prize $15, to Corriganville.

Ladies Auxiliary making best appearance, $15 first prize to LaVale and a second prize, also of $15 to District No. 16.

An award of $25 was made to each of three musical units appearing in the revue. These were the Arion Band of Frostburg, Faraday Post American Legion Drum Corps, Frostburg, and Fulton Myers Post American Legion Drum Corps, Cumberland.

There were 33 fire companies in the parade which was judged by Harry K. Poling, Ralph Holzer and Raymond Whitehair.

One-Way Traffic Plan Extended On Two Streets

Virtually all of Frederick and Bedford Streets between the city limits and Mechanic Street will be made one-way effective at 7 a. m. tomorrow, according to Police and Fire Commissioner William V. Keegan.

The commissioner said Frederick Street will be one-way in a north-easterly direction all the way from Henderson Boulevard to the point at the city limits where it runs into Bedford Street. At the same time Bedford Street will be one-way in a southwesterly direction from the point where it meets Frederick Street at the city limits to Henderson Boulevard.

Bedford and Frederick streets will remain two-way for the short stretch between Centre Street and Henderson Boulevard. Both Frederick and Bedford streets have been restricted to one-way traffic the past month.

A change in the county budget, to place the expenses of the county treasurer in a separate fund was recommended yesterday by James P. Rogers of Baltimore, who is auditing the county's books, and Mrs. Johanna Sills, the county auditor.

The county treasurer's expenses now are lumped in with the county commissioners' expenses.

This new procedure will be followed in the coming months and will be included in a separate item when the 1956-57 budget is adopted next April.

The commissioners voted to accept the bid of Alvin Finesman for lots 16, 17 and 18 of the Allegany County Farm Addition on Holland Street for $1,260. The bid was accepted on motion of William H. Lemmert, which was seconded by C. N. Wilkinson.

Plans Visit Here

District Governor John W. Morgan of Frederick will make his first official visit to the Cumberland Lions Club at the regular Wednesday luncheon meeting at Central YMCA at 12:15 p. m.

Boy Scouts' Junior Leader Training Camp Opens Soon

The third annual Junior Leader Training Camp will be held by the Potomac Council, Boy Scouts of America, at Camp Potomac, beginning Sunday, August 28, and concluding Wednesday, August 31, Dean K. S. McKee, council training chairman, announced.

Although this will be the third in the series of these popular training sessions it will be the first time the council has attempted a three-day affair McGee said.

The training program is for all Junior Leaders, Patrol Leaders and Senior Patrol Leaders and will be conducted by a trained staff from Potomac Council. The course will be on "Patrol Method in Operation," and will outline and train youthful leaders on how to run a scout troop.

Stress will be placed on the ideals of scouting; creation of self-reliant and resourceful leadership; patrol leaders' council; training of leaders for district, council and junior training events, camps and camporees; perfection of many scouting skills; training in survival techniques and a more enriched troop unit program.

Members of the council staff who will conduct the training camp for the junior leaders are Ronald Sinday, Cresaptown Troop No. 9, Charles Crowe, Frostburg Post No. 52, and Walter McKenzie, Lona-

New Teacher Is Appointed To Lutheran Kindergarten

Miss Pauline Schoenfeld of Clinton, Wisc., has accepted appointment as parochial kindergarten teacher at Trinity Lutheran Church here, and will arrive in Cumberland the latter part of this month.

Miss Schoenfeld succeeds Miss Elizabeth Junas who has been the kindergarten teacher for the past three years. Miss Junas left at the end of the term to be married.

The kindergarten will open with an open house program for parents and children the evening of September 6, and classes will begin at 9 a. m. September 7.

The Trinity Lutheran Church Kindergarten accepts children from four to six years of age for the purpose of preparing them for their first year in school. Their classes include drawing, coloring, painting, games, rhymes, story hour, health and safety, number activities and Bible stories and Training.

Rev. G. A. Wagner, pastor of the church, notes that Miss Schoenfeld comes here with highest recommendations and excellent training.

Other business during yesterday's meeting was the discussion of next year's budget and also reports were heard on the capital improvements program for Western Maryland.

A number of new park proposals primarily along the Eastern Shore received consideration during the meeting.

Kaylor also pointed out that the commission voted to cooperate with the Upper Potomac River Commission on a proposed additional dam to be built in Garrett County.

With the construction of an additional dam in that area it would create jobs as well as recreation areas. Members of the commission stayed at the William James Hotel in Oakland last night.

Sunday afternoon, a group from the club went to the range for a practice shoot. They found the largest had been all but destroyed. They were torn and broken up, bent out of shape and knocked down.

It was first thought they had been damaged by the recent wind and rain, but close inspection showed the damage was the work of vandals.

Parade Opens Cumberland Fair

The 38th annual Cumberland Fair was opened last night for the third consecutive year with a firemen's parade featuring equipment, firemen, auxiliaries and musical units from various points in the Tri-State area. Rain followed the parade around the half mile track which dampened the opening day enthusiasm. At the left in the picture above the Frostburg Arion Band may be seen. The band received a $25 prize. In the center is the LaVale Firemen's Auxiliary unit which won a $15 award as the best appearing auxiliary in the parade. Around the track may be seen fire apparatus and ambulances used by various volunteer fire departments in the area.

Council To Set Budget Tomorrow

The Mayor and Council will meet tomorrow at 9 a.m. to set the levy and act on the budget for the 1955-56 fiscal year, Mayor Roy W. Eves announced yesterday.

That is one day before the August 25 deadline as prescribed by law.

It appears a certainty the tax rate will increase a minimum of 12 cents although some sources have hinted it could go one or two cents higher. Adding the minimum estimate to the current rate of $1.36, that would make the new tax rate at least $1.48.

One of the primary considerations which council has had in its budget talks over the past few weeks is the question of pay raises for city employees. It has been enacted unofficially that if all pay proposals discussed were enacted it will cost between $60,000 and $70,000.

Commissioners have reported that in every instance they are attempting to pare budgets "to the bone."

All have expressed themselves as opposed to any increase in taxes but are faced with the necessity of doing so.

The show will be followed by a fireworks display, with set pieces and rockets all around the track.

Fifteen spectacular exhibits are included in the hour-long demonstration, with the feature being a fireworks presentation of a "Battle at Sea."

The Bicentennial Queen and the Little Queen, scheduled to have been presented last night just before the stage show, will be presented tonight, as will also the Allegany County Farm Queen.

Boy Hurt In Freak Mishap

A 15-year-old McHenry boy was hospitalized yesterday afternoon as a result of a freak auto accident which occurred in the front yard of his home.

Admitted to Garrett County Memorial Hospital was Mark Clayton Snyder, who sustained a fractured right leg and multiple contusions and abrasions, according to police.

The accident occurred about 1:45 p.m. yesterday as Santina Marinaro, of Washington, Pa., was driving north on the Marsh Hill Road in McHenry near the intersection of Route 15.

Police said the accelerator on the Marinaro car stuck and the vehicle apparently went out of control across the street into the front yard striking the boy.

Investigating officer is Tfc. Robert D. Henline.
